College Selection Process - Sample Resources

Disclaimer: Northeast United (NEU) in no way should be considered to be seen as recommending or endorsing any of the websites, books or other resource materials mentioned in this seminar or presentation. In addition, we receive no compensation. These should be considered as examples only of types of resources that are available to help you.

Examples of Available Resources

Mandatory Websites:
- NEU College Selection Site (www.neu-college-selection.com)
- NCAA Main Site: (www.ncaa.org)
- NCAA Eligibility Center (www.eligibilitycenter.com)
- NCAA Eligibility Site (www.2point3.org)
- National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (www.naia.org)
- National Junior College Athletic Association (www.njca.org)

Other Sites:
- Athletic Recruiting Assistance sites (examples)
  o Recruiting Sites: e.g. NCSA – (www.ncsasports.org)
  o Recruiting Sites: e.g. – Karen Weaver (www.intelligentrecruiting.org)
  o Blogs – e.g. NCSA Blog (www.ncsasports.org/blog/)
  o Google it – there are a number of helpful sites – you need to do the research
  o The Princeton Review (www.princetonreview.com)

Books and Documents (examples)
- The Student Athlete and College Recruiting (Go to Amazon.com and search for others)
- NCAA Eligibility Center Quick Reference Guide (available at the NCAA eligibility website)
- NCAA Eligibility Frequently Asked Questions (available at the NCAA eligibility website)
- 2014-15 Guide for the College Bound Student Athlete (NCAA eligibility website)
- The Best 379 Colleges - 2015 Edition (Go to Amazon.com and search for others)

Approach your High School
- They have access to a number of resources that you can use

Leverage Your Own Network:
- Talk to Parents and Trusted Advisors
- Friends who have attended college and played sports
- Guidance Counselor and teachers
- Coaching staff at NEU and high school
- Friends and relatives

**Be careful. Some resources cost money. Consider carefully before paying for anything. It is your personal decision. There are a significant number of 'FREE" resources available.*